

Brief Curriculum Vitae

Roberto Pecoits-Filho, MD, PhD, FACP, FASN

Dr. Roberto Pecoits-Filho is currently a full professor of nephrology at the School of Medicine, Pontifícia Universidade Católica do Paraná and director of the PhD and Masters Programs in Health Sciences at the same University. Dr. Pecoits-Filho received his M.D. degree in 1993, trained in Internal Medicine and Nephrology in Curitiba and completed his nephrology fellowship at the University of Missouri, Columbia in 1997-98. He received a Ph.D. from the University of São Paulo and thereafter went to Sweden as a visiting scholar at the Karolinska Institutet from 1999 to 2002. As a clinician, his activities are based in the Department of Internal Medicine at the Cajuru University Hospital and at the Renal Medicine Unit at the Marcelino Champagnat Hospital. Dr. Pecoits was a principal investigator in 11 multicentric trials, leads 2 investigator driven multicentric trials in Brazil and is the Chair of the Steering Committee of the CKDOPPS Brazil. He sits on the Editorial Board of Nephron Clinical Practice, Peritoneal Dialysis International, Hemodialysis International, and Blood Purification and is Associate Editor of the Brazilian Journal of Nephrology and is a ad hoc reviewer for Journals such as New England Journal of Medicine, Lancet, JASN, and Kidney International. He has published his research in over 130 papers in international indexed journals, which were highly cited (Factor H of 23), and lectured in over 35 countries around the world. He is currently Vice President of the Latin American Society of Nephrology and Hypertension and the Brazilian Society of Nephrology and the Chair of the Young Nephrologistd Committee at the ISN.